NEW YORK, July 19.—Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, U. S. N., retired captain of the ill-fated battleship Maine, died at his home here today suddenly. Admiral Sigsbee had been in poor health for two years, although only yesterday he was out riding. His death was due to heart failure. The funeral arrangements have not been made but he will be buried at Arlington cemetery probably next Monday.

Rear Admiral Charles Dwight Sigbee rose to fame through the greatest naval disaster in American history—the 'blowing up of the Maine.' He was 52 years old at the time, a captain and a veteran of the Civil War, an inventor of deep-sea exploring apparatus.

Captain Sigbee, in command of the Maine, was ordered to Havana harbor to protect American property and citizens during the crisis of the Cuban rebellion against Spain in 1898. On the evening of February 15, he was sitting in his cabin. Many of the 328 men and 26 officers were asleep. The captain was enclosing a letter in an envelope addressed to his home folks when a deafening roar sounded through the ship. The battleship began to list. Sigbee groped his way through the dark to the deck. A

"None can ever know," he said later, "the awful scenes of consternation, despair and suffering down in the forward compartments; of men surrounded, or drowning in the swirling water, or confined in a closed compartment slowly filling with water. It is comforting to believe, and it is probably true, also, that most of those who were lost were killed instantly."

The tragedy cost the lives of 251 Americans. The news spread over all the world. The American nation was aroused to a pitch of frenzy, believing the Maine had been blown up by hostile Spaniards. "Suspense judgment," urged Sigbee in his first report. His calm wisdom led much toward preventing the United States from rushing into war immediately. He accompanied the court of inquiry in its investigation of the wreck, and his expert knowledge helped it to arrive at a decision as to the cause of the disaster.

The question has been asked many times, said the Admiral shortly before his death, "if I believed that the Nazis were blown up from the outside. My answer has been that my first order on reaching the deck was to post sentries (to repel boarders)." He added fresh laurels to the fame of the war that soon followed the tragedy. As commander of the St. Paul, a Trans-Atlantic liner converted into an auxiliary cruiser, he captured the Spanish collier Restormel, carrying coal to Cervera, and thus

The naval career of Sigsooe began when he was only a boy of 14 years. Born in Albany, N. Y. in 1845, he entered Annapolis in 1859. At 18 he had graduated and was serving with the West Gulf Squadron in the Civil

Var. At 19 he followed Farragut as an ensign through the battle of Mobile Bay. At 20 he was fighting under Fisher at Fort Fisher. At 23 he had been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant commander.

During the 11 years of peace following the Civil War, Sigsbee won reputation as an inventor. Among the other duties of naval officers through that period it fell to his lot to explore the sea bottom. Here his inventive genius came to the fore and

ANGORA REVISES POLICY TO AVERT A CONFLICT NOW

BY LARRY RUE
(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, July 18.—With the success of the peace conference at Lausanne assured, Angora again today revised its Mosul policy to avert a conflict with the British, and rescinded an order appointing candidates to the grand national assembly from that territory. The government expresses sympathy with the desire of the population of Mosul to join Turkey and hopes this may come eventually, but it asserts that a settlement has been postponed.

The enthusiasm over peace has reached a climax following two spontaneous celebrations over rumors of peace.

An announcement that Russian refugees have been only given temporary asylum and must get out following peace is causing alarm to several thousands who have established themselves in various occupations, from serving in restaurants to dancing in ballrooms. The Turkish desire to open up jobs for their own people and relieve the local problem. They also declare that the police records show that many Russians not having jobs commit crimes for livelihood. It is felt that it is possible that an agreement may be made with the bolsheviks to force the refugees to return to Russia.

Farmer Turns to Business Methods To Escape Big Wheat Crash

PRODUCTION COSTS HIGHER

(Special to The Bee.)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 18.—Farmers are getting 13 cents a bushel less for wheat this year than last. Production costs this year are higher than last.

Kansas agricultural experts estimate it costs a farmer to produce a bushel of wheat. They are getting an average of 77 cents a bushel for this year's crop.

The resulting loss to Kansas farmers is estimated at $35,000,000 and no those of the United States $172,000,000.

That means reduced or wiped out incomes of 10,000,000 residents of the United States this year.

In 1919 farmers of Kansas got $250,886,000 for their wheat crop. This year they will get approximately $172,000,000.

Why is the price of wheat slumping? And what is the American farmer, greatest single wheat producer, going to do about it?

These two articles tell you. One is from the Kansas Wheat Belt, the greatest wheat producing area in the world. The other from the greatest wheat trading city in the world.

They treat of different angles of the same subject in a clear, concise manner. It all seems to be that the farmer at last is showing that he has become a business man. He realizes he must not only supply the demand but actually must create the demand. It is necessary to keep pace with his supply.

When he produces less than the world is able to consume, there is a shortage. More than can be absorbed—the situation that now exists—he suffers through overproduction. That lesson he has learned.

Every person in the civilized world is interested in the wheat market. That's why these two articles are so vital.

Please note that the cartoon by Dorman H. Smith on the editorial page deals with the wheat situation.

PRODUCTION COSTS HIGHER PRODUCER GETS LESS

BY J. P. WRIGHT
(Special to The Bee.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 19.—As their reward for a season's work, the farmers of the United States will have to pocket a loss of $172,000,000 on this year's wheat crop as result of the recent slump in wheat prices.

That is the estimate of J. C. Mohler, secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture.

The slump, caused mainly by overproduction throughout the world, will sweep away the earnings of millions of farmers, Mohler estimates, and leave them poorer than they were a year ago.

It means a check in the prosperity wave that has swept the country during the recent boom in wheat prices.

The loss estimate is based on a production cost of $1.35 a bushel, the estimate of J. C. Mohler.

The situation is such that farmers simply will have to give up raising wheat in such large quantities, Mohler says. It is idle to expect legislation of any other factor to increase wheat prices while the world markets are being flooded.

Declining Market.

"The farmers of this continent obeyed the economic law and produced more wheat when more wheat was needed. They are just as certain to obey the economic law and produce less wheat when less wheat is needed."

"It is comparatively easy to extend a business on a rising market. It is difficult to readjust a business on a profitable basis with a falling market, but that appears to be the big job."

ENGLISH WOMEN ARE TURNING TO BUSINESS

LONDON, July 18.—English women are turning their attention to professional vocations formerly confined exclusively to men.

More and more women are engaged in civil, electrical and mechanical engineering and there are at least half a dozen firms of women constructors who have completed large building contracts.

Electric lighting is a branch of domestic engineering which seems to attract many women. They perform their work more from a housewife's point of view than do men. One firm of women electricians has successfully completed several contracts for lighting country houses with electricity.

estimate of what it costs a farmer to raise a bushel of wheat in Kansas this year. The farmer will get only an average of 77 cents a bushel for his product.

Must Offset Losses.

It means 10,000,000 people of the middle west and west will have to cut down expenditures during the coming year," Mohler says. "It means there must be a change in the mode of living of farmers and those who depend upon the prosperity of the farmers for a living."

"Of course, farmers will make a profit in other lines possibly from their livestock and corn," the agricultural expert continues. "But one can see that it will take a great deal of profit in those lines to offset the losses of wheat growers."

"Kansas farmers will be $5,000,000 worse off for their year of work and investment in growing wheat."

"I am not a calamity holler and want to make the reservation that Kansas farmers have seen hard times before, and will pull through some way. They still will ride in motor cars, but many of them will be old ones, I fear."

Last year the average price received by Kansas farmers for wheat was 80 cents.

The situation is such that farmers simply will have to give up raising wheat in such large quantities, Mohler says. It is idle to expect legislation of any other factor to increase wheat prices while the world markets are being flooded.

confronting the wheat farmers of the United States.

"A reduction of wheat acreage and more diversified farming in the wheat producing states constitutes the only remedy."

"I believe it has been clearly shown that legislation cannot be depended upon to make wheat a profitable crop when there is an overproduction."

"Our own agricultural college has recommended that farmers feed wheat to hogs, saying they can get as much as a dollar a bushel in that way for their wheat if present prices of hogs continue. The experts have made a close study of how much wheat it takes to put a pound of weight on a hog and I am willing to take their figures."

Much depends upon the grade of wheat and how it is mixed with other crops. It might be very profitable to feed a low grade wheat to hogs."

Strike Improbable.

Asked regarding the suggestion of Governor Jonathan M. Davis, "that wheat sellers go on a strike, Mohler says:

"I believe such a movement would have to take in virtually all of the wheat producing states to be successful. It would be hard to arrange with banks to liquidate loans."

Mohler's belief is that the big world market, which the United States has had the last few years, is being narrowed down to a record crop of wheat—something they dropped during and immediately after the war.

"Russia and the Balkan states once more are in the field," he said. "India already has harvested a record crop and will export a surplus of at least 60,000,000 bushels this year and the exports of that country may go as high as 100,000,000 bushels. It must be remembered that India exported only 3,000,000 bushels last year and year before last imported wheat."

"As to the increase in production in our own country: During the war period and since then the wheat acreage has increased about one-third and during the same period the wheat acreage in Canada has almost doubled."

"In Kansas we used to plant twice as much corn as wheat. Now we plant twice as much wheat as corn. We simply must get back to the old ratio. In the meantime we have to learn our lesson and stay in debt another year or two."

Consumer to Buy "SOLD" ON USING MORE WHEAT.

(Special to The Bee.)

CHICAGO, July 18.—Wheat will win the war, the grain slogan, says a Chicago spokesman.

Today that phrase advises all Americans not to Hooverize, but to eat more wheat.

In that sense, according to the new slogan, the wheat council of the United States, wheat will win the consumer's war for health and victory the farmer a victory over hard times.

Increased wheat consumption will be made by the consumer as well as by the individual. Not only will each citizen be urged to eat the prize, a miniature mule, couchant, in brass for his proficiency.

Today the fried chicken, the songs of the Lions were sung and the roars delivered by the men and boys, Frank Talbot, a guest from the Kiwanis Club, made a brief talk in which he lauded the spirit that inspired the boys and the responsibility of arrangement, equipment and management of the place.

The boys then circled together and gave the visiting Lions a hurrah and several songs ended in like manner the practice. It is charged, he killed an 11 year old boy by breaking his jaw during an attempt to pull a tooth. Before he came to Chicago, Fox was a shoemaker, the state charged him with murdering the criminal court today for manslaughter.

The story of the boys visit to Fox was told by the father, Bruno Papalewski, today. He said his boy, Leo, went with him to the dental parlor last December. Fox he said pulled the boy's tooth. The boy was in great pain for several days afterward and went finally to Dr. Mathews, E. Franz, who said the jaw had been broken. This diagnosis was upheld by a coroner's physician after the boy had died seven weeks later from loss of blood and infection.

Investigation by state department of ministration and education disclosed the fact that Fox had no license.

The inspector stated that Fox had come from Canada as a shoemaker, had married the widow of a dentist in Chicago and had inherited the former husband's tools and practice.

Three witnesses, after the case had been continued a dozen times since February, today swore Fox had been in Milwaukee on the day in question. Inspector Fallmer declared he will re-arrest Fox for treating others.

A New Character In Tesmer Affair

BY MARGARET DALE
CHICAGO, July 18.—For the second time in thirty days the police blotter of Chicago have recorded the uncanny story of a sex metamorphosis adopted to well a life that led from the haunts of the underworld into a prison cell.

Today it was slim soft eyed Blanch Voohees, "going on nineteen" who had swapped her birthright of femininity charm and girlish innocence, for an olive drab shirt, gray trousers, close cropped hair and the argot of a young apache. By a strange coincidence she has been linked in the suspicion of the police with that other anomaly, the girl-man, Thompson, now held for the brutal murder of Richard Tesmer.

"Girls haven't got a chance in the world," you gotta be a boy to get done," was the explanation Little Miss Voohees gave for her masculine attire. She was arrested as the most recent suspect in the Tesmer murder case.

Thompson, the girl-man, when questioned by the police in the same matter replied, as he roughed his cheeks, that though he might be a man he preferred to go through life as a woman.

A month ago Mrs. Tesmer positively identified Thompson as the "girl" who shot Mr. Tesmer while she pulled the trigger. But despite her "positive identification" of Thompson, the police insist that the young and pretty masquerader, Blanch Voohees, must pass the scrutiny of the widow before she can resume the natural habits of her sex and go free. They wish to be entirely sure that the girl is not the same man who shot the girl-man, and not that of the man-girl which saw Tesmer to his death, two months ago.

"I did not dress like a boy to be smart," said Mrs. Voohees. "It just seemed the easiest way. That's all. Girls get such a rotten deal in this world it's only a man who gets on. I got tired of waiting on tables in Port Wayne. If a girl has looks she's wanted and I didn't want a worse husband—at least not like the one I had. I decided I'd go home, or the nearest thing to a home I have, which is in Danville, where my mother lives. So I dressed in boys' clothes and rode the rails, just like the hoboes do, and I got away with it. And then I bumped it back again to Chicago. I came up here to see my married sister, and I was just about to get a man's job when I was arrested. I wish I knew why they arrested me."

Although there is a striking contrast between Thompson, the girl-man, and Blanch, the man-girl, the former being blonde, chic and seemingly insensible to the amenities of life, and the latter young, pretty, and possessing the rudiments of culture and refinement, psychologists declare they may be actuated by the same motives in banishing the signs and prerogatives of all that each sex takes pride in. They have sought it is explained, to lose themselves in a dual personality where a Dr. Jekyll assumed the forms and habits of Mr. Hyde, and Madame Jekyll steps into the garments of a Mr. Hyde.

DENTIST KILLS BOY IN TRYING TO PULL TOOTH

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

CHICAGO, July 18.—"Not guilty" was the verdict written at the end of the case of Dr. Arthur B. Fox in the Municipal Court yesterday. He was charged with practicing dentistry without a license.

During that practice, it is charged, he killed an 11 year old boy by breaking his jaw during an attempt to pull a tooth. Before he came to Chicago, Fox was a shoemaker, the state charged him with murdering the criminal court today for manslaughter.

Still a Girl

In bloom and beauty—due to clay

By Edna Wallace Hopper

After 32 years as a stage star, I look like a girl of 12. My complexion is as soft and rosy as a debutante's. My skin is as smooth and youthful as 10 years ago.

All women marvel at my looks when they see me play young girls' parts. But my same methods brought like results to scores of my beautiful friends. So I am convinced that most women can, in these days of multiplying beauty aids, preserve their bloom.

Now I have arranged so all who wish may employ the methods which did so much for me.

White New Type Clay.

The chief reason for my complexion clay, famous beauties have for ages used it. No woman can without it look her best. The users of facial clay stand out in any crowded place. French experts introduced clay to me some 20 years ago. But clay since then have been very much improved. The crude and muddy clays of many years ago are out-of-date.

Ably assisted have been studying clay for 20 years and over. They have found that a certain mineral-laden clay brings maximum results. They have learned how to refine the clay, removing the coarse matter. The clay I use, White Youth Clay—is white and clean and dainty.

They have found some added factors which bring multiplied results. So the oldest users of crude clays, now they will be amazed at this new clay.

THE VALUE OF BABY HEALTH TALKS.

The attention of our readers is called to the series of articles under the title of "Baby Health Talks" which are appearing twice a week in The Bee. These articles are being prepared at the invitation of the Danville Health Department by a local physician who has made a special study of child welfare problems as a member of a special medical commission in Europe and as physician in the Children's Clinics in Vienna and Berlin. These articles will embody in the simplest possible terms the latest thought on the subject of child health and welfare.

In the European countries, as a result of the devastating war, the subject of child health and welfare has been placed in the center of the national concern. The European nations are realizing that if they are to cope with the task of regeneration and racial rivalries the best scientific knowledge on nutrition must be made available to the masses of the people, and each mother must be taught how to take care of child in a rational way.

This country is also appreciating more and more the value of child welfare activities. City and state appropriations for child health are beginning to cut a conspicuous figure in the budget. It is with a feeling of satisfaction that we are able to present to the Danville people an authoritative series of talks on a subject so essential to the happiness of a community, baby health.

Much of the information regarding babies which the young mother obtains by word of mouth from kindly neighbors is at variance with the present tenets of medical opinion. Much of this advice which is offered to the mother in the best spirit is traditional but very often erroneous if not actually harmful. The series of health talks which are now being presented are authentic and have an added value since they emanate from a man who has devoted the past two years of his life to the study of child welfare and who has been in personal contact with specialists who have become recognized authorities on the subject. All those of children would do well to follow up this information by attending the clinics at the health department's offices, taking their children there where correctional advice will be given.

The distinct value of the dissemination of authentic information bearing on good health has been definitely established though unfortunately there remain many doubting Thomases who in the case of children find it hard to repudiate the primitive creed. Not many weeks ago the vice-president of one of the largest insurance companies in the world who was discussing the merits of his company's health promotion campaign declared that when it had undertaken in a large way campaigns for better health in cooperation with existing health agencies 50,000 fewer policy holders in the company had died than would have died under the normal death rate of preceding years. This saving is human life, the preservation of the health of the nation, the saving of billions in death claims. These figures bring out in startling way the effect of the careful direction of better health suggestions and the acceptance of medical truths made available largely in the public press.

DOOR LOCKED?

Did you ever lock the door when you climb into your auto for a short trip, then get out and go back to make sure the door was locked? Did you have to try the knob once but several times before convinced that the door wouldn't swing open at the first touch of a thief who might have come along? Did you ever get out of bed and "make sure" the lights were turned off in a certain room, or in the cellar, even though you recalled very distinctly having turned them out? Did you ever go over the house carefully before retiring or leaving the premises, to make sure that nothing had been forgotten in the way of smoldering cigarettes that might start a fire? Did you make the rounds of the house several times, repeatedly scrutinizing the same places, and even then not be confident that there was no fire hazard? All of us are subject to these occasional losses of confidence in our own memory and judgment.

Cases such as these are apt to make us wonder occasionally if we are "all there" mentally. An insanity specialist, interrogated, might not be very comforting in his answers. Dr. Johnson, out for a stroll and passing a picket fence, always had to hit every picket with his cane as he passed. Sometimes he believed that he had missed a certain picket, then he'd walk back a block or two and hit the offending piece of lumber an especially hard and comforting rap.

These queer brain short-circuits or throw-backs are not so much matters of sanity as of nerves. They belong in the same class as nervous drumming with fingertips, tapping of shoes to keep time to music, counting stairs as we climb, making freakish moron pencil designs in absent-minded moments while talking over the phone or waiting for a number. Such brain lapses, unless curbed, can become annoying habits. Fundamentally they are nervous disturbances. And they demonstrate that good memory, confidence in one's judgment and acts, and the alertness that is the opposite of absent-mindedness—all these are in varying degree a condition of nerves, rather than of education or determination or the hanging of "pep" mottoes over the desk. Safeguard your nerves, for only when they are functioning harmoniously does your brain do its best work. You've observed how difficult it is to concentrate and reason when nervously restless.

ARE YOU "SCARED" OF LIGHTNING?

(Roanoke Times.)
Speaking for all those who have no liking for thunder storms, now is the season of our discontent, to paraphrase the great bard. During July and August the mercury soars to heights that make electrical disturbances, with their resultant drop in the temperature, welcome to all but the unfortunate who flinch at the vivid flashes of the lightning and cover their eyes with their hands. For the latter there is consolation in Prof. McCade's reminder that there are one hundred discharges for every bolt that hits a person and that of every hundred strikes of lightning, about ninety are from clouds to clouds, doing no damage whatever; the other ten come down to earth in a straight line and these are the ones that are real cause to fear. Prof. McCade's rule are:

First. Do not stay on a beach or in a field when dark, heavy clouds are overhead or coming slowly from the west or south. Get under cover if possible. If this is not practical, lie down. Do not remain standing.

Second. Do not stand under a tree with thick foliage. You are forming a part of the line of discharge, since the body more particularly the skin, is more of a better conductor than the leaves of the tree.

Third. Do not stand in a doorway or at a window in proximity to a chimney. There are currents of air or winds, and the lightning follows the column of air, especially warm air.

Fourth. Don't laugh at any one's nervousness during a severe thunder storm. There is a good reason to be nervous. It is dangerous to be near a chimney or a tree or a daispole or a metal clothesline.

Fifth. Stock should not be tied near a wire fence.

Sixth. There is no particular sense in going to bed standing on glass or rubber or any good insulator, a woolen blanket for example, will give one a little more security and a great deal more comfort. The probability of lightning striking a residence is very slight.

Seventh. If you are near a person who has been struck, make every effort to resuscitate him. Rarely does lightning kill outright. Most people are stunned and all that is needed is artificial respiration to restore them to consciousness.

Eighth. If you are in a trolley car and a flash comes in and burns the glass with a roar and a blinding flash, get out of the car and run. The trolley car is a good conductor and will carry the current to the ground.

Ninth. If your house is provided with good lightning rods you need not be afraid of lightning. Good rods are in the blocks are practically safe.

SESIONS SUSPENDED

(By The Associated Press)

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, July 18.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—At this season of the year one hears many suggestions as to how to keep cool. In order to develop new thought along this line and avoid vain repetitions of the same old stuff, we will line out some of the schemes promoted along Main street in the past few days. Check up the list and get it down pat so you can call a perspiring brother and save time unless he has something really new to offer. Here are ten suggestions to start with:

1. Wear as few clothes as possible, but keep within the law. And be careful of poison ivy—remember there's no place you can't get it.
2. Sleep three hours every afternoon, right after lunch. If this interferes with your work, give up work.
3. Spread as much cheer as possible. If you see a person overcome with the heat run up and tell him a funny story.
4. Look up your friends who have the habit of treating him coolly.
5. Go more often to thy bath, and change thy shirt frequently.
6. Insult a policeman and let him knock you cold.
7. Eat watermelon instead of hot mud.
8. Sleep in your rain coat with your feet in the window.
9. Powder your nose and roll your hose.
10. Have two jimmy pipes and keep one of them in the ice box.

—And what has become of the Eskimo Pie?

Adam and Eve were invited to a dance and Eve was undecided whether to wear her fig leaf or maple leaf and asked Adam's advice. Hearing the jazz music after Adam said: "Wear poison ivy, I'd care. I think the party's going to be rough."

Why Not Now?

If with pleasure you are viewing any work a man is doing, If you like him and admire him, Tell him now!

Don't withhold your approbation, till the deed is done and he is dead, And he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow. For no matter how you shoot it, he won't really care about it; He won't know how many tear drops you have shed.

If you think some praise is due him, Now's the time to hand it to him. For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead; More than fame, and more than money, Is the comment kind and sunny And the hearty warm approval of a friend.

For it gives to life a savor And it makes him stronger, braver, And it gives him heart and courage to the end. If he earns your praise, bestow it, If you like him, let him know it; Let the words of true encouragement be said.

Do not wait till life is over, And he's underneath the clover, For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.—EX.

RUSSIA WILL EXPORT MUCH RAW PRODUCTS

(By Chicago Tribune Service)
RIGA, July 18.—Russia will export raw products, principally foodstuffs, worth 300,000,000 gold rubles ($150,000,000) during the present year according to data in a book published by Leonid Krassin, commissioner for foreign trade.

While M. Krassin is considered one of Russia's best business men, in debate as a politician he is a mediocre in the Baltic press which claims that he has been aided by some communist "fancy figure," as the statisticians are now called in Moscow.

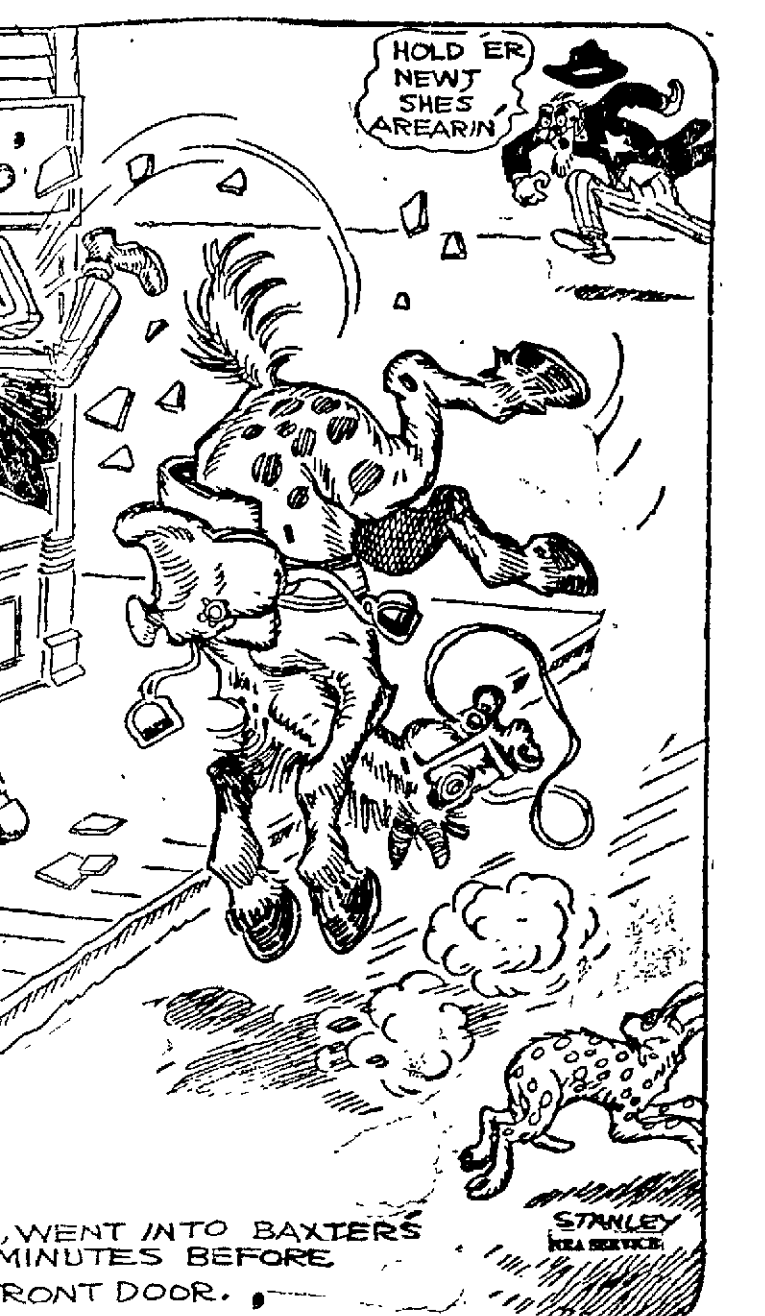

Such devotion in her life as Jack is giving to Leslie. He never leaves her bedside except to do what business is absolutely necessary. This, particularly, I feel upon him. Mrs. Hamilton said, because Leslie does not know him all the time and at times he is asking him to leave John that she is going to have a baby and asking if he thinks that John would be able to take care of it.

She told him over and over again that she was afraid that John would be unable to take care of it. She told him that she was afraid that John would be unable to take care of it.

By the way, the young man who was with Leslie when she was in the hospital, he was a very nice fellow. He was a very nice fellow.

THE YELLOW SEVEN THE BOX TRICK

CAPTAIN JOHN HEWITT—Commissioner of Police at Jersellon—sprang to his feet and extended a welcoming hand to a stout, elderly Chinaman pausing on the threshold.

Monica Viney, delightfully at ease in a cane chair, raised her eyes from her book to observe the newcomer. His attire seemed to be a studied compromise between eastern and western fashions, for he wore a white tunic, baggy trousers of black silk, and black boots with elastic sides. Across his chest stretched a gold watch-chain, the links of which were peculiarly massive, and the third finger of his left hand displayed a ring set with a large green stone.

"You sent for me," he announced with a harsh intonation that, for some reason, struck terror into her soul.

"That's right," agreed the commissioner cordially. "Come in and sit down. This is my sister, Mrs. Viney. Monica, I want to introduce you to the wealthiest and most respected Chinese gentleman on the island—Mr. Chai-Hung."

"How do you do?" murmured Monica sweetly. She was about to rise when a movement of the oriental's hand checked her.

"Please don't move, Mrs. Viney. I cannot tell you how delighted I am to make your honored acquaintance. I understand you arrived in Borneo only a short time ago."

Monica flushed.

"I came from Singapore three days ago—in the Jalander," she replied. "It was a wonderful trip. I was practically the only passenger in the first-class saloon."

Chai-Hung lowered himself into a chair.

"Practically," he echoed.

"Why yes. There was only myself—and a Mr. Pennington. Hewitt looked up sharply.

"Of course you'll stop to tea, Mr. Chai-Hung."

The Chinaman shook his head slowly.

"I never take tea, at least, not what you mean people term tea. You'll pardon me, I know, if I say that our national beverage suffered considerably when it came into your hands. You diluted it with milk—and spoiled it with sugar!"

The commissioner crossed his legs and held his cigar-case toward his guest.

"What is your theory, Captain Hewitt, if I may ask?"

"I believe that this affair is not wholly unconnected with the present wave of anti-British feeling that prevails everywhere. I look at it as a carefully calculated plan to cause considerable annoyance to a prominent Englishman; the work, in fact, of a secret society. Be that as it may," he concluded abruptly, "I'm in about the biggest hole I've dropped into during the whole of my official career."

"Has it ever occurred to you," asked the stout, elderly Chinaman, "that a secret society in the east is very much the same as a trade union in the west?"

"Then you don't agree with me?"

"Hardly," cried Monica excitedly. "But," she cried Monica excitedly, "how do you account for the yellow seven?"

Chai-Hung leaped to his feet and stood glaring at her, his fists clenching and unclenching in his efforts to choke down the fury that consumed him.

"What do you know of the Yellow Seven?" he demanded fiercely.

She regarded him in amazement.

"Why," she retorted innocently, "it was yellow—and there were seven dots."

The oriental swallowed something in his throat.

"He regarded him in amazement. 'Why,' she retorted innocently, 'it was yellow—and there were seven dots.'"

"Good-afternoon, Captain Hewitt. Good-day, Mrs. Viney."

He was off at a rapid pace and the commissioner watched his red paper umbrella until it was out of sight.

He turned to find Pennington at his elbow.

"Good Lord, man! How did you get here?"

"The other grumbled. The only thing that was remarkable about Peter Pennington was the angle at which his eyes were set on an otherwise youthful countenance. They ran obliquely and were as celestial in appearance as those of the great Chai-Hung."

"Come as far as the sun-blade," Pennington explained. "Heard the sound of voices—and retreated to the kitchen-entrance. Found your office a damn sight cooler than the outer atmosphere."

The commissioner surveyed him dubiously.

"You've been listening."

"I always listen," admitted the newcomer unabashed. "It's my job."

"I suppose you gathered that our oriental acquaintance is a washtub as far as this affair is concerned," said Hewitt gloomily.

The younger man leant against the wall and began rolling a cigarette. Afternoon, Mrs. Viney! He's not it?"

"Frightfully Mr. Pennington, you don't really think Mr. Chai-Hung will help Jack, do you? I think he's a horrible man!"

"Know anything about Chai-Hung?" asked Pennington suddenly. Hewitt started.

"He's a very mysterious Chinese merchant. He plants rubber as a sort of profitable hobby. Chai-Hung's as white as they make 'em, for all his yellow hide."

"And yet he refuses to help you?"

"Not at all. He promised to do his best. I hardly expected him to send the damned pendant to me by this evening."

"Pennington turned and gazed thoughtfully toward a sea of infinite blue.

"Thanks," he murmured dully. "I take it then that you place absolute confidence in our friend?"

"Certainly. I've no reason to do otherwise."

The younger man swung slowly round on his heel. He walked down toward the kitchen quarters, then came back and stood in front of the commissioner's chair.

"If Chai-Hung knows as much of the manners and customs of his people as you are inclined to imagine, he could have told you one thing at least—if he had chosen. He could have explained to you that the recovery of the lost diamonds is every moment becoming more difficult—because it is changing hands with incredible rapidity."

Travel Coat Makes Its Bow in Plaids, Stripes, and Fur

by Mary Eleanor Howell

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The travel coat's the new thing; really, our old friend the utility coat, after a fresh baptism. Fifth avenue windows have been displaying them right and left. They run to grays and browns, and good practical lines. Though some are sport capes in inveterate style, most of them are built in top coat style.

Novelty cloths are sought to make them. They differ from other coats in that they keep away from satin, suede or tulle finishes, yet you see them worn over summer dresses, crepes as well as tub frocks. It's all in the sports clothes atmosphere to do that—and sports effects rule both day and evening dress, it really seems. Your friends from country or seashore think nothing of coming in to lunch or tea with you in a prominent place wearing her travel coat if it's that kind of day and she feels like it.

These coats feature stripes and plaids, and are usually topped with fur collars, though fabric finishes are also used. But no leggings to shades of one color, usually tan or gray, their vigorous patterns do not result in noisy garments. They rank now with the shops as fall coat offerings, as well as for this season's use. The model illustrated is in blanket cloth, brown and tan, with a brownish squirrel collar.

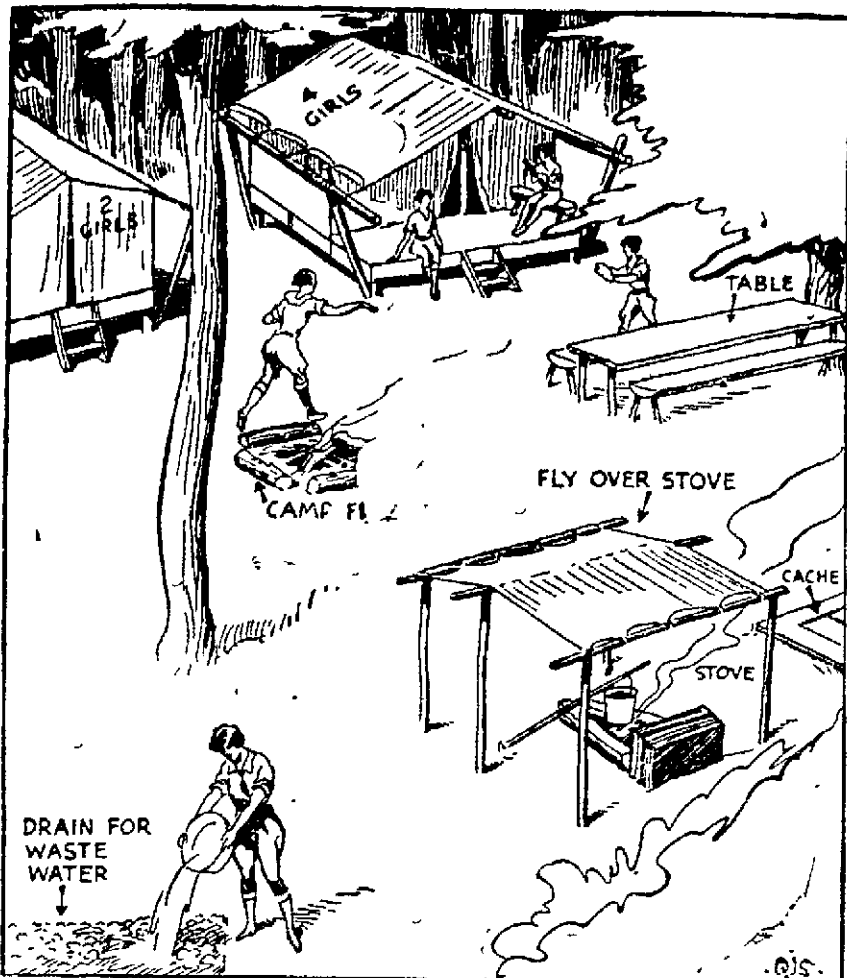

GIRLS' SUMMER CAMPS

Morning Frock in Style

EVEN a morning frock should show some conformity to style. Here is one that does. It has the long waist, a slight fullness over the hips to give a long-line front and back. It is in the back with a sash. It could be made of gingham, dimity or voile. It could be made of cretonne with trimmings of linen. It could be made of a checked cotton crepe. It has as many chances to be charming as there are pretty materials.

NORTHERN MILLS ARE SHUT DOWN

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 13.—Notices were posted today in four Rhode Island plants controlled by the Goddard-Dammell interests, cotton manufacturers, announcing they would be shut down for 2 weeks. The mills affected are two in Lonsdale, one in Berkley and one in Ashton. No reason was given for the shut down. More than 2,400 workers are affected.

LIVERPOOL, July 13.—The loading of Atlantic liners here has been stopped in consequence of the extension of the dockers' strike. Several thousand men quit work after a demonstration by strikers. All coastal and cross channel service also has been stopped.

GIRLS, are you going camping this year? Summer is here, and the camping season is on. Here are some tips that will add to your fun and your comfort if you go.

Choosing your camp site is important. See that you have some shade and some sunny land, part flat and part hilly. Six girls may be accommodated in one tent, or you may pitch one large tent for four and a smaller one for two, or make both larger, if there are more campers, or add another tent if necessary.

The accompanying sketch shows a tent 14x14 feet for four girls, with a covered porch 14x8, and another tent 12x12. In the center is the camp fire; under the trees, an outdoor dining table; nearby, a fly covering the stove, in the rear, behind the trees on one side is a cache for food and on the other side a drain for waste water, and a wash house.

See that the water supply is pure. Have it tested by local health authorities. When in doubt, boil the water. After it has been boiled it will taste flat, because the oxygen has been boiled away. You can bring "life" back to the water by aerating it. Dip out carefully a cup of water and pour it back slowly, giving the oxygen of the air a chance to combine again with the water. Keep this up until the water has been cooled somewhat, and you will find the flat taste has disappeared.

Next in importance to water is camp sanitation. Find out from state and county health authorities what their rules and regulations are regarding sanitation. A good drain for waste water can be made by digging a hole in the ground three feet deep and two feet in diameter; then dig a trench one foot deep leading out one side to a grade.

Fill the hole with stones, larger ones at the bottom and smaller ones on top. Then line the trench with stones. Dish water and all waste water may be poured in. Lume should be sprinkled on daily, and at least once a week pour in kerosene and burn out the hole, but be careful in the latter case not to set fire to trees or brush.

If a camp is to be used for longer than a week board floors are advisable for the tents. Set the floor up at least eight inches from the ground, so there will be circulation of air underneath. One side may have to be farther from the ground than the other because the floor must be level.

How to be happy though married. Be Adaptable but Not Vacillating, Miss Blake Advises Wives if They Would Avoid Irritating Their Husbands.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"For heaven's sake, make up your mind," or "Will you please decide what you are going to do," are phrases heard almost as often as "I am a realist," "Twenty days hath September." It is tremendously exasperating to have some one in the family who never seems to know what she wishes or where she is going.

The sex is made feminine, for men, probably because of their business training, are not so often the offenders. If anything a man is so certain of what he wishes he is inclined to be stubborn rather than vacillating.

In a family where there are several children there always is a leader and there always is one who is neither for nor against, but trails along and, when put to any discomfort, howls for help. Early traits are apt to remain when growth is attained. The boss remains the head of the clan, and the vacillator keeps the likeness to a weather vane.

To what extent the United Daughters of the Confederacy are providing a means of education in the best schools of the South to the lineal descendants of Confederate veterans is revealed in the list of the scholarships which are available to eligible children. A number of these scholarships already have been awarded to young men and women of Virginia and those listed are still open and can be obtained provided applicants are able to meet the necessary requirements. Information bearing on these educational opportunities can be secured upon application to Mrs. Harry Woodling, Jr., president of the Danville Chapter U. D. C., or to Mrs. J. R. Perkins on Virginia avenue. The applications should be received, it is learned before August 15th when the lists will be closed.

Newport Society Becomes Vast Flutter When Visit From Real Queen Is Hinted

Marie of Roumania May Come to U. S.

BY DEBUTANTE.

NEWPORT, R. I.—If rumors floating around Newport have any basis in truth, that city is scheduled for a summer visitor par excellence in the person of the queen of Roumania, who, it is said, will be the guest of Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs.

The famous "Tessie" Oelrichs has not seen fit either to confirm or deny the rumor. She is abroad at present and her return to Newport has been more or less problematical. Of late she has not exhibited nearly the flair for things social that once was her chief characteristic. It has even been reported that Mrs. Oelrichs intended to pass up Newport this season and remain abroad, as Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and several other prominent matrons prefer to do.

A Triumph Indeed.

If the queen of Roumania actually comes to America as the guest of a private personage, she will throw something of a monkey wrench into the ponderous machinery of tradition. Princesses abroad have been entertained by Newport hostesses. If a society woman even of Mrs. Oelrichs' fame and standing should be able to display a reigning sovereign to her friends at Bailey's beach, the result would be a triumph of such proportions that even Newport might be a bit dazzled.

When the prince of Wales visited New York, he declined invitations to be the house guest of various prominent persons, and made the battleship Renown his headquarters. He attended only one private entertainment—the dance given in his honor by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at her imposing Madison avenue house. Even this partook of semi-official nature, inasmuch as the late Whitelaw Reid had been United States ambassador to the court of St. James and the Reids for years had held a top notch social position in London.

If Roumania's beautiful monarch becomes Mrs. Oelrichs' guest, she will find the Oelrichs' mansion, Roscliffe, quite equal to any royal palace she has ever viewed. She will find her self in one of the most delightful summer homes in America and in the hands of a charming hostess.

Scene of Gorgeous Ball.

The white and gold Oelrichs ballroom of Louis XV. design has been the objective of many ambitious Newporters. Echoes of the "white ball," given by Mrs. Oelrichs in that room several years ago, are still heard in Newport. This affair was hardly less gorgeous than the memorable party given by the late Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish in her Louis XVI. ballroom.

"The Crossways," the great leader of Newport home. This latter event created a sensation because of its cost, estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000.

For two or three years the prospect of a visit from the Roumanian queen has kept New York social leaders on the qui vive.

The recent arrival of Mme. Marie Jonescu, who came to this country by command of Queen Marie, has been regarded as significant, for many held she was here to pave the way for her sovereign's visit.

CROP PROSPECTS BELOW TEN-YEAR AVERAGE IN VA.

(By The Associated Press)

RICHMOND, Va., July 18.—Irregular crop prospects prevail in Virginia and taking the situation as a whole, conditions are below the ten-year average, the Virginia crop reporting service said today in its semi-monthly review.

Crops in Southwest Virginia are in good conditions, the review stated, due to favorable although late season in that section. Other sections of the state have suffered from the long drought which still prevails in many communities according to the review. A better yield of wheat than was expected is noted in the Southern and central sections where a large part of the crop has been thrashed, while the outlook for an average yield in other sections is said to be good.

While tobacco has made some progress during the month, the yield is not expected to exceed two-thirds of last year's crop, the report said, adding that the crop is still suffering from lack of rain.

The corn crop in the Southwest is promising, according to the review, and has made much improvement in other sections where there has been rain. The hay crop is short, the crop service estimating a yield of 50 per cent of the normal crops. Pastures were said to be dry and in many localities farmers have been forced to feed their stock.

Although there is a poor yield of early potatoes, the review stated, the crop has been rising rapidly. A total of 7,700 cars and been shipped to July 7 as compared with 11,172 cars to the same date last year. Some improvement is noted in the sweet potato outlook in sections where rain has fallen. The commercial acreage of this crop is said to be considerably smaller than last year.

WILL GO AHEAD WITH A POLICY

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 18.—Director of the Veterans Bureau announced today that he would have to go ahead with a policy with respect to the hospital care of "hospitalized" veterans, even if it could reach only a small number of the persons who are entitled to it.

He has received a suggestion from the committee to have the hospital care of all persons who are entitled to it, but the director has decided to go ahead with the policy of having the hospital care of only a small number of the persons who are entitled to it.

ORDER IS DEFIED
(By The Associated Press.)
SYDNEY, N. S., July 18.—Four thousand Cape Breton, coal miners voted tonight to go on a strike in defiance of the order issued yesterday by John Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Lewis cancelled the charter of district 26 and ordered the men to return to their work.

Would Dissolve Company Into 3 Corporations

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Proceedings against the International Harvester Company supplemental to the litigation in progress for the past ten years were instituted today by Attorney General Daugherty.

A petition was filed in the United States District Court at St. Paul asking that a decree be entered dissolving the company into at least three separate and independent corporations as suggested by the federal trade commission in a report to the Senate in May 1920.

It is declared in the petition that the provisions of the original decree entered against the International Harvester Company on November 21, 1918 under the Sherman anti-trust law providing for the disposition by the company of its Osborne, Champion and Milwaukee lines of harvesting machines "are inadequate to achieve the declared purpose of said decree which is to restore competitive conditions in the United States in the interstate business in harvesting machines and other agricultural implements."

The three proposed separate companies would include two implement companies of substantially equal size, one of which would feature the McCormick harvester machines, while the other would include the Deere line. The third company would take over the steel and coal subsidiaries of the harvester company. The two implement companies, while larger than any other company in the industry, would be able to compete with each other, and other companies could compete on terms of equality with them.

Litigation involving the International Harvester Company dates back to 1911 when the government, on the verge of filing a petition asking for the dissolution of the company as a combination in restraint of trade, consented to enter into negotiations with officials of the company with a view to considering several dissolution plans proposed by the company. Finding it impossible to thus secure a satisfactory voluntary dissolution, the government filed a petition in April, 1912, in the United States District Court for the district of Minnesota, asking for a decree of dissolution that would restore competitive conditions in the industry.

In August, 1914, the district court, composed of Circuit Judges Sanborn, Hook and Smith, held that the International Harvester Company was organized to eliminate competition between the various companies and was in restraint of interstate commerce and a monopolization of such commerce in harvesting machinery and illegal under the Sherman law.

Thereafter a decree was filed finding and adjudging the company to be an unlawful combination and ordering the defendants to present a plan for the dissolution of the company and the division of its assets into a number of parts of separate and distinct ownership as may be necessary to restore competitive conditions and bring about a condition in harmony with law.

The case was appealed to the Supreme Court where it was twice argued and twice restored to the docket for re-argument. In 1918, the defendants dismissed the appeal and the case was remanded to the district court for the working out of a plan of dissolution. On November 2, 1918, a final decree was entered requiring the defendants to sell and dispose of the Osborne, Champion and Milwaukee lines of harvesting machines, and the Osborne and Champion plants.

AID FOR ALASKA

URGED BY HOOVER

(By The Associated Press.)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 18.—A pledge that steps would be taken within 3 months which would place Alaska more in the way of progress than ever before has been given by the people of the territory.

Speaking at a dinner of the Chamber of Commerce the secretary said: "Within the next 3 months we shall effect some measures that will place Alaska better than here to-day so that we may do something worth doing. The greatest thing we might do is to establish a happy reputation to build a committee so that Alaska will have a greater mis- sion of control of her fisheries and lands. She has the building of a great state."

Secretary Hoover pointed out that Alaska would not be developed in a rush like Oklahoma and California, but some day would develop four or five great states.

"This," he said, "must come by steady accretion of people, step by step that come here to obtain a better livelihood and a better standard of living. We must remember it is a place of great possibility and there can be no full self-government until you have a full citizenry that burden."

A Tip For The Married Women From British Premier's Wife

BY MILTON BRONNER (Special to The Bee.)

LONDON, July 19.—If you want to keep your husband happy, refrain from asking him about his business.

Take this as a tip from Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the man who probably has the biggest job in Europe. As British premier he is concerned not only with the perplexing problems of his own nation, but the leading affairs of the whole world. He knows the innumerable secrets of diplomatic situations upon which the destinies of millions may hinge.

Yet when he sits down by the fire-side after a hard day's work, his wife, no matter how curious she may be, never tries to probe the secrets that are his.

"I think it a great mistake on the part of a wife," Mrs. Baldwin told me, "to start talking to her husband about his affairs the moment he enters the house. If he wants to talk, well and good.

"But as a general rule, what a man needs more than anything else is to be taken out of his workaday world—be it ditches or diplomatic circles—and be able to put aside the cares that weigh on him.

"It is the greatest mistake of marital life to try to bring the husband back to his business and professional worries. Home should be a refuge from these cares."

But although Mrs. Baldwin never forces political talk upon her husband, she has great faith in her judgment and frequently consults her in regard to matters affecting his political life. When he hesitated about breaking with Lloyd George over the decision to turn the scale against the Lloyd George administration.

"But the first qualification for the premier's wife," says Mrs. Baldwin, "is that she should not be too much of a politician. The prime minister is something more than a party leader. He, next to the king, is the head of the nation, and the premier's wife should be ready to receive people of all shades of opinion.

"When a woman is a politician, she is generally more partisan than a man. It would therefore be next to impossible for a keen woman politician to be successful as a premier's wife. That's why I'm glad I am not a keen politician. Of course I have followed politics during my husband's campaigns, but I am more at home in the domestic sphere.

"When he is by the fireside," says Mrs. Baldwin, "with his favorite pipe and a book, or surrounded by his family, I am sure that he would prefer to a free life to the quiet life of a premier's wife. He likes the plain old English ballads of the countryside best."

But when they do have a political discussion, there is rarely any accord in the Baldwin family, for the premier's son, Oliver, is a Socialist of the school of Charles Kingsley and Ruskin. Only his abhorrence of the association with Bolshevism prevents him openly from espousing the cause of the Labor Party—his father's opposition.

"It is not often one finds father and son taking such divergent views," says Mrs. Baldwin, "but it adds to the interest of life."

"It was an answer also to the recent journey of Chairman John T. Adams, of the Republican national committee, to the middle west where he admits millions of farmers ruined by the bankruptcy under Republican rule, proclaimed prosperity as the Republican slogan.

"The stalwart Republicans of Minnesota were required to answer 'yes' or 'no' on the issue of whether the Harding administration should be endorsed, with the amazing result of the Harding majority of 376,000 in 1920 turned into a bitter opposition majority upwards of 60,000. In the face of the common Republican assertion that Magnus Johnson was impossible by every test, the intelligent and discriminating Republican voters as the least of two evils deliberately chose Johnson over the candidate wearing the republican national administration label."

REFUSES TO BACK STATE IN CASE

(By The Associated Press.)

LANSING, Mich., July 18.—Attorney General Daugherty refused today to back the state quo warranto proceedings against the House of David colony. H. T. Dewhurst, attorney for the colony, requested that the quo warranto action be delayed, pending the appeal of the case to the United States circuit court of appeals.

The quo warranto action is brought against the colony primarily as a corporate business institution. The United States court is on the ground that the colony is not a business institution and therefore not required to pay John Hansel for his work while a member of the sect, as directed by the United States district court. Information from Grand Rapids yesterday was to the effect that appeal of the Hansel case probably would not come up until late fall or winter as the colony was granted additional time to perfect its appeal.

FORMER EMPRESS IS DYING

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

BRUSSELS, July 18.—Former Empress Charlotte, of Mexico, a melancholy heroine of one of the adventurous episodes of the nineteenth century in history, is dying at her chateau at DeBouchant, near Brussels. Former Empress Charlotte is 83 years of age and has been mad since June 19, 1857, when her husband, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, was shot down in her presence at Queretaro, Mexico.

Locked up in her stately castle near here, Charlotte has not moved through the events of half a century, which have destroyed the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns.

The insane empress was carefully guarded during the German occupation, the Kaiser ordering that full attention be given to her health. Charlotte's nephew, the King of Belgium, hurried to DeBouchant yesterday. He is said to be very fond of the gentle, witless old empress who still thinks she is in Mexico.

FORCED TO TAKE DRASTIC ACTION

BY J. B. POWELL (By Chicago Tribune Service.)

SHANGHAI, July 18.—A joint conference of the Japanese chambers of commerce in China and Japan, session here this week to consider conditions in China, adopted a resolution for presentation to China today saying, that China must put its house in order otherwise Japan will be forced to take drastic action to stop the disturbance of peace in the Far East.

"We hereby warn the government and the people of China that they should come to their senses as soon as possible, effect unification and the stability of their country, cut an end to the chaotic conditions and stop the anti-Japanese agitation," says the resolution. "At the same time we demand that the Japanese government take firm and drastic action toward this agitation which is decidedly an act of violence and an outrage."

The resolution further states that Japan has many discussions to China and has given up many of its vested interests, hoping thereby to see China wake up to its responsibility but in vain, and that it is now time for the Japanese government to take drastic action.

HARRY HAMPTON LEADS COLFERS

(By The Associated Press.)

SUMMIT, N. J., July 18.—Harry Hampton, Detroit, Tom Kerrigan, Siwayne, MacDonald, Smith, San Francisco and Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, led a field of 111 of the country's best professionals and amateurs in the first round of the 72 holes metropolitan open golf championship at the Canoe Brook club today with a score of 72 each.

The course, which measured 6,586 yards, with a par of 73 is and extensively different one and the scores of the four leaders which is one under par, was a brilliant display of golf.

Walter Hagen, former American and British open champion, and John Golden of Dutchess, with rounds of 73 each were in a tie for fifth place. Hagen, who played with Hagen, had a 73.

FIRE DESTROYS BLOCK

(By The Associated Press.)

MONTICELLO, N. Y., July 18.—Fire today destroyed the Wooden Meliken and Wagner block in the business section, causing injuries to five men and damages estimated at nearly $150,000.

The flames, which originated, it is believed, when a cigarette was dropped into gasoline used for cleaning purposes, threatened the village, but the Monticello fire department, aided by forces from Middletown, Hurleyville, Port Jervis, Liberty and Fallsburg, succeeded in confining the blaze to the one block. The fire was extinguished early tonight. Four men were overcome by smoke and Hiram Smith, of the Port Jervis force, was injured internally.

FIRE SPREADS TO PARK

(By The Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, July 18.—Fire which broke out in the car barns of the Cincinnati Traction company just before midnight, spread to Chester Park, a pleasure resort, where the Cincinnati pure food exposition is being held this week. Buildings housing the exports from all sections of the country were threatened.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart."

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 36 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had great trouble. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 520 Sprague street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It tops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so good or speedy.

BANKS EMPLOYEES STRIKE SERIOUS

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

MADRID, July 18.—The general strike of bank and credit institute employees is so grave that the government is seriously agitated. A cabinet meeting has been called to consider legislation which will be necessitated if the paralysis of the credit institutions becomes nation-wide.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, contain no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists, or sent direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tireless exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.—adv.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing. I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAEBECK, 944 25th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

Fistic Chatter for the Fans

(Special to The Bee.)

NEW YORK, July 19.—A Dempsey-Firpo contest for the world's heavy-weight title is now right up to the wire. The fight is being promoted by Jack Dempsey, himself, Tex Rickard, who has offered a proposition to the champion's manager that is satisfactory to the Shelby favorite. But for the fact that the Argentine Giant has suddenly blown a triple cold on the idea everything would be all set by now for the championship bout at Boy's Thirty Acres inside of the next six weeks. Unless "the man without a smile" signs on the well-known dotted line within the next 24 hours the chances are that Dempsey will be signed up to meet Harry White.

Jack Dempsey is determined that he will not lay off from his trade of punching chins for another two years and his manager is here to do business of getting the match and the money. In fact, he insists Dempsey is anxious to fight Firpo around the first of September and take on Willis one month later. Kearns had two important interviews yesterday.

In an interview with Jimmy Johnson and the Cromwell A. C. representative Kearns advised that he had a proposition from Tex Rickard for a Dempsey-Firpo match which was so attractive that it must be given first consideration. So much for the rumors that the champion has already been signed for the bout with Harry White.

"I had a long interview with Kearns," admitted Jimmy Johnson, "but he insisted on talking big money. The Cromwell A. C. can offer Dempsey the best proposition for a match at the Yankee Stadium, but it is against the laws of this State to offer any guarantee."

"We are in the field for the Dempsey-Willis match," stated Johnson, "and I believe I will land it." The case of Luis Firpo in the matter, however, is peculiar. Not so many hours ago he insisted upon pointing out that he was afraid his rights to a crack at the big title were not being accorded proper recognition.

Something seems to have suddenly given the Argentine Giant the impression that maybe he isn't so ready as he thought he was. Luis Angel is now talking of fighting Dempsey down in Buenos Aires.

"I am not inclined to take much interest in promoting a heavy-weight championship contest so far from New York," commented Rickard. "I have several places closer to New York where I can put on such an important bout with plenty of assurance of financial success."

Rickard, it is understood, has guaranteed Kearns his Shelby terms of $300,000, all in good cash. So far as Kearns is concerned, says the champion's manager, "After this fight, but if it is in Buenos Aires we will want a lot of money."

WHITE KNOCKS OUT RICHIE MITCHELL

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 18.—Charley White, hard hitting Chicago lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee tonight in the fourth round of a 15 round match at the New York Velodrome. Mitchell's seconds threw a sponge into the ring when he went down for the second time in the round from a right to the jaw, followed by a smashing left hook.

Charley White, Chicago left hook expert and Richie Mitchell, Milwaukee lightweight, renewed their fistic feud tonight for the third time in a 15 round match at the New York Velodrome before a crowd estimated at 10,000.

White weighed 138 and Mitchell 133 1-2. Mitchell forced most of the fighting in the first round and landed several hard rights to White's head, but the Chicagoan had the better of the fighting at close quarters. White sent Mitchell to one knee with a left hook in the second round but the Milwaukeean came back to stagger his opponent with two smashing rights to the head. White's mouth was bleeding and Mitchell's left eye was cut after a furious exchange.

They battled at a fast clip in the third. White had Mitchell on the ropes in distress with a battering attack to the head but Richie weathered the storm and sent White back with several rights to the head.

White started the fourth round intent upon making a quick ending to the battle. He floored Mitchell with a right to the jaw for a count of eight and drove Richie about the ring with a withering attack to head and body. Groggy and reeling, the Milwaukeean went down again from a right and left to the jaw, his seconds tossed him out. The end came after two minutes and 45 seconds of the round.

Grandstand Gaff

"Seven" and "eleven" turned the trick Tuesday but "seven" turned it yesterday. "Cy" Twombly rambled along very well until that seventh frame, when a cluster of hits, one a mighty four-base wallop by Mollie Cox with three on, tucked the game away on the summer coil.

Although one-sided the game brought out some classic features. Out of 16 chances at short, Magrann bobbled two, while Freddy Dorman handled perfectly nine out of 19. Mollie Cox made a brilliant stab of a foul of Murphy's bat in addition to his two Ruthian raps. Besides holding the Virginians to seven hits, Rube Crews had a perfect day with the willow, getting four clean ones out of four.

Crawls work on the mound with the exception of the seventh and ninth frames the first Danville batter managed to reach first, then Rube threw on the brakes.

"Blondy" Cochlin was directly and indirectly responsible for the Tobaccoists' two runs in the fifth spasm. His long double scored Resco, who pulled a pass, and the young receiver chucked up one on Pierre's overthrow.

Danny Overton was struck in the face by a bouncer off Rube Crews' bat in the seventh, but managed to finish the game.

Advance dope from Greensboro has it that O'Quinn and "Lefty" Wilson will oppose each other on the mound this afternoon in the Patriots stadiumette. If "Lefty" is running in the form of his last game, it will be "Down with the Patriots."

Just about the time everybody gets ready to bet their "last red" that a thing can't be done then it is time for you to stake your roll that it can—and sometimes you win. Said philosophy is suggested by the present standing of the Giants and the Reds. Only a few short weeks ago Giant backers, friendly and antagonistic critics opined that it was impossible for the Giants to lose enough consecutive games to drop out of the lead. About that time the Reds were getting limbered up like a pesky alarm clock just when the world is at its best. All the Reds asked was that someone put a few crimps in the Giants' stride. They could win but if the champions continued to win regularly the margin could not be altered. Recently teams that have heretofore been easy meat for the New Yorkers pulled the olden worm-turning stunt and now only 22 notches in the sky separate the two clubs.

"Cincy" copied another yesterday, while the McGrawites were howling to the Cards in the same game the luck of the champs began to crumple. George Kelly star first-sacker sends his knee in collision with a fielder. The Giants may head the list.

at the final pow wow but it is a good bet that both the Pirates and Reds will top the world conquerors at least one time before the season's calendar is dumped.

That a similar break may hit the Yanks would not be near as good a bet. But a Yankee slump owing to injuries or a general weakening, might set the go unfor a short time around the middle of August, although it is not likely to happen earlier owing to their magnificent lead. Once New York does start breaking it will be a fight back for the Indians now are on a warpath as bloody as the Reds in the other circuit. The continuance of Cleveland's present stride and a fifty-fifty average by the Yanks until August 15, would place them in mighty close quarters.

Carr Smith continues to slug them along at his own wild gait, getting a four-ply swat and a two-time blow out of four trips up yesterday.

Manager Hardin Herndon appeared in the Pointer line-up yesterday after a long absence. Hardin scored once out of three appearances, connected two runs, and bobbled one out of 15 chances. With the return of Herndon, Lady Luck's wheel struck McCullough, who was forced out of the game in the sixth on account of an injured ankle.

The chief offenders with the willow in the Pointers' trouncing of the Twins were Kane and Thrasher, the former getting four out of five and the latter three out of a quintet of tries, one of Kane's going for three sacks.

A number of calendars have been thrown away as useless since the White Sox calamity but the followers of the diamond play haven't forgotten. "Shoeless Joe" Jackson, the star of the bunnies and the most popular of the blacklisted players, tried to make a come-back at Americus, Georgia, but the former highlight swallowed the bait and he seems to be out of the baseball waters for all time. The Americus club gave him a contract and the people of that section turned out in droves to welcome him. Then the order came that any player taking part in a game with him could never enter organized ball, a drastic ruling, and the one-time favorite is now a pariah. Landis unmercifully hands out as a lesson to others, who are inclined to take the wrong path.

Youngsters, you don't want to forget the Elks are taking you out tomorrow, and Herb and his crew will likely need your support. Get your tickets at the club or be at Stoddard's Jackson school at 4 o'clock. The girls will be the guests of the Elks at the Elks' Banquet, showing the "Third Alarm", and it is not a false alarm, either.

The hole if putted too strongly. Placing of the hand in the hole eliminates this possibility. Such a move would tend to disqualify a competitor.

Two partners in a four-ball match accidentally exchange balls and play out the hole that way and apparently win it. Then the mistake is discovered. Just the mistake be discovered before they hole out if a penalty is to be inflicted?

The rules specifically state that the players accidentally lose the hole when partners exchange balls. No consideration can be given the fact that the happening was accidental and that the players holed out the wrong ball before it was discovered.

BATES DEFEATS JAPANESE STAR

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, July 18.—Wallace J. Bates, youth from the Pacific Coast, eliminated Masamune Fukuda, Japanese star, from the Longwood Bowls Tournament to oppose R. N. Williams, 2nd, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., in the round before the semi-finals.

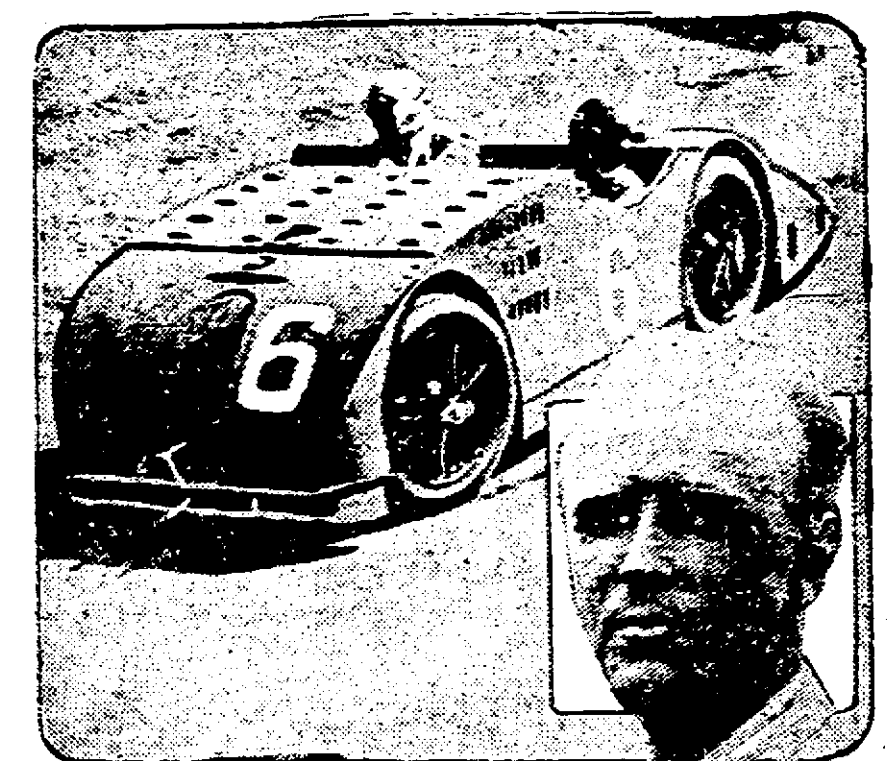

Fukuda was pumiled by Bates, controlled speed and the count in the first set reached five love before he could break through for a game.

Twombly Hit Hard In Seventh Frame

GREENSBORO, July 18.—Greensboro gave Murphy's Virginians a good whipping this afternoon to the tune of 11 to 2. Pitcher Twombly went good for the Tobaccoists until the seventh inning when he blew up and hit tallies registered. Another couple counted in the following frame making the score very one sided. On the other hand Crews did good work for the locals although they played raggedly behind him, being charged with a half dozen errors. He was inclined to allow hits to the first baseman up but who he realized what they might mean he tightened up and was good in the inches. In every inning except the seventh and ninth the first visitor to the plate reached first, but only in the fifth were they able to get around the circuit. They made two runs in that frame. Resco walked, and scored on Cochlin's two bagger to keep center Cochlin was sacrificed up a bag by Twombly. Dorman was out on a fly to left. Overton was third to catch Cochlin off and threw him into the bleachers. Cochlin scored Smith was out Carroll to Cox. The batting and fielding of Cox featured. He got a homer in the second with none on and again hit for the hrout in the seventh with the bases loaded.

Overton was hit in the face in the seventh inning by a batted ball hit by Crews. He was painfully injured but continued to play. Both shortstops played a good game in the field Magrann accepting eighteen chances and bobbling two making a total of twenty chances. Dorman had ten chances, accepting nine in perfect style but errored one, the only error of the game.

Crews hit a thousand, getting four safeties in as many trips to the plate.

Twins Trowned By the Pointers

WINSTON-SALEM, July 18.—The league leaders handed the Twins a good thrashing this afternoon, winning easily by the one-side score of 11 to 1. Eldridge pitching for High Point held the locals to six hits, only one lone tall resulting in the eighth. The Furniture Makers secured an early 4-0 lead up to 1:30 p.m. when they took the field. To vary the last they played hitless ball the base runners only trotting when a hit was secured. A barehanded catch by Herndon of the bat of Anderson featured.

CHICAGO AND BOSTON SPLIT

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 18.—Chicago and Boston broke even in a double-header today, the Red Sox taking the first game six to three, and the White Sox the second 11 to 2. Ehmske settled down after a wobbly start in the initial contest and his mates staged a batting rally in the sixth when Robertson blew. In the second game the White Sox went on a batting rampage won easily.

Raleigh Loses First To Bulls

RALEIGH, July 18.—By timely batting in the final stages of the game, Durham came out victorious over Raleigh here this afternoon, the score being 8 to 4. The score was tied when the eighth inning began when the visitors registered three runs and another in the ninth while the locals were unable to do further scoring.

ST. LOUIS 2; ATHLETICS 0

(By The Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, July 18.—Although out-hit nearly two to one, St. Louis shut out Philadelphia 2 to 0 today. Shocker, who allowed 9 hits, was victorious in a pitching duel with Heilmann, who permitted only five safeties. McCann accounted for both of the Browns' runs, crashing out a home run in the fourth inning and sending Gerber home in the 8th with a sacrifice hit, after Gerber had doubled and advanced to third base on an out. It was St. Louis' sixth straight victory and Shocker's 15th victory of the season.

NEW YORK 4; DETROIT 1

(By The Associated Press)
DETROIT, July 18.—Home runs by Ruth, Ward and Dugan were the key by which New York beat Detroit. The score was four to one. Elmer Smith, playing right field, made an unassisted double play in the fourth. He took Pratt's fly and then ran in and doubled Heilmann at first base.

OWNERS BACK UP UMPIRE ACTION

(By The Associated Press)
ROCHESTER, July 18.—The International League club owners at a meeting here today commended President Toole on his stand in the umpires' controversy, which started Monday with the discharge of Empire V. M. Phyle.

It was stated today that umpires Magerkurth and Deer had withdrawn their resignations.

Toole said he would confer with umpires McDavitt and Gelsel, who also resigned. It was said that these two umpires also were anxious to return to the fold of the International League.

There is no shortage of umpires, Toole declared, for he has as many as 25 applications on hand now for positions.

A LOVE PLOT

is not lacking from the thrilling adventure tale of The Yellow Seven
by Edmund Snell
of the desperate struggle waged by the white man, "Chinese" Pennington, to save British North Borneo from the clutch of Chai-Hung, the arch-criminal, and his terrible organization of oriental robbers and assassins.
The conflict furnishes a continuous thrill from start to finish, but the novel would not be complete without of Pennington's wooing of the beautiful widow, Monica Viney.
THE ROMANTIC TOUCH
The story's divided into 12 episodes of three installments each. You can't afford to miss one of them.
